Henderson at Prove.

Prove, Oct. 29 — [Special telegram to The Henaun.] — Judge Henderson and W. A. Dusenberry addressed a large audience in Prove tonight and produced great on thusiasm. Democracy is now resting or the top wave, and will soon be lifted into the harbor of success.

AT MT. PLEASANT.

At the depot the parly was met by a reception committee and the weil drilled, the weil uniformed Mt. Pleasant band, in their suits of bine and red and with banners flying, excerted to the hotel.

The flag was carried by an ex-confederate and an ex-federal sodier, demonstrating that the bine and the gray, at least in Utah, were triends in the battle for political rights.

At this point the party was rejoined by the Hon. John T. Caine, who had awang round from the Beaver canvass.

Thus reinforced they proved equal to all demands, and at 2 p. m. opened fire on all opponents to the true principles of Demands.

THE PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

The issues of the "Republican plan of campaign" were tersely set forth by Alfales Young in language sil could understand. He did not mince words, but found a few nuggets of truth to present to his audience that might not sit so easily on the campaign prevarientors' stomachs.

The Sait Lake City railroad company filed an answer to the damage suit of campaign prevariestors' stomachs.

ANXIOUS TO MEET RAWLING. The people of Mt. Pleasant had never had the good fortune to meet Mr. Rawlins before, and all were anxious to know him. While offering a reasonable spology for not addressing them at great length, he delivered a most telling speech, and in an hour's time covered ably said clearly the topics of tariff, trusts, bounties, protections and the said of the s

St. Gronge, Oct. 25.—Politics has been red hot in Dixie. Ever since Norrell, Young and Cannon visited us, the gir has sounded with sireet discossions and political rallies. The Democtats are working enthusiastically for their party, and the Republicans are working desporately to holster up an illegical tariff. Last night the issues of the campaign were debated here.

Yes, I contess I had given up all hope, years ago, of ever being cured of catarra. I had suffered more than thirst years with this disease, had takes hundred so to sure cures for extarra, so called but could feel no improvement in my health; if any change it was for the warse, that severe pairs in back of my head, profuse discharge from the mostries could not smell anything, my breathing was labored and difficult, could not breathe through my hostrila at any time. I should very sore produced by accumulation of mucous therein. I had a very severe cough.

MR. JOHN'S, REYNOLDS SALT LAKE.

After a hard spell of coughing I would be After a hand spell of coughing I would be completely exhausted. There was always is beary pressure and almost continuous nains through the cheat. At times the pain seemed to penetrate to my book, between the shoulders, and was so severe I would no obliged to incline my body for ward to get relief. I was doubled up with pain, so to speak. Moreover, I was competied to keep this position. The noment I would try to straighten up, severe pains would atrook me. I thought I would not wait any distance without producing lameness in my legs and they would give way and I would almost fail.

My food, wast little I also pat me in perfect misery. For a long time I could not only bread and milk, seepe did not refresh me. I was just as tired in the unorning as at night, on arising many times I would faint desaid away, several times my wife thought else would never revive me again. I am seventy two years chi and I thought my time hard come just liave been given a new lease of life and will tell you how got it.

It is just this: I took the advice of a friend, who had been cared of catarrh by Drs. Manedelia and De Monco, and went to them with my case.

IT IS A BOON TO READ. ERS.

offer made in our advertising colu of a complete set of the Americanized Encyclosedia Britannica for the small sum of $5.00 on delivery of the complete set, and $2.50 a month for ten months. This proposition is made solely on condition of your subscribing to this paper for one year; all our pres scribers are entitled to all the advantages of this offer. Such a proposition was never made by any newspaper be-fore, and the fact that we are able to make it is a striking illustration of the wealth producing progress of the world in this wondrous age of elec-tricity and steam. The cost of producing the encyclopedia has considerably exceeded $1,000,000. That such a work should be placed at the disposal of every resident of this section at a price so small that the saving of eight cents daily for eight months will cover it, and on terms so easy as to involve no inconveniences of economy-this surely is a triumph of modern intelligence and labor combination. What the Americanized Encyclopes dia Britannica is, however, is a matter as to which information is not generally diffused. The Encyclopædia Britannica is regarded by all students and literary men as the standard reference authority of the English speaking world. For nearly one hundred and twenty years it has stood at the dead of its peculiar class of literature, employing on its nine editions the most celebrated writers of successive generations, and sparing no expense necessary to secure the services of the foremost men in every department of human knowledge. Essays, dissertalons and descriptions by such men as Macaulay, Jeffrey, Leigh Hunt, Faraday, Mill, Tyndall, Huxley, Clifford and Farrar are imbedded in its pages, making it not only an encyclopædia of facts, but a most delightful assortment of literary tressures as well. This is the work which forms the basis of the Americanized Encyclopredia Britannica, which is, as its name imports, the original Britannica remodeled, amended and, where necespary, enlarged to fit it to occupy in American homes the place held by the original work among the people of England. Articles on subjects peculiarly interesting to Americanssuch as the histories and descriptions of American states and cities, accounts of military operations on American soil, descriptions of peculiarly American industries and institutions-have been entirely rewritten and greatly salarged, the space alloted to matters uninteresting except to Englishmen being correspondingly reduced. A most complete series of hiographies of living persons-of whom no mention is made in the original work, its plan excluding notices of any but the dead -has been added, a number of new maps, including one of every state in the union, have been introduced and the entire work has been corrected to bring it into line with the progress of history and science up to the present year. The net result is a compilation that in intercet and reliability surpasses the original Encyclopædia Britannica as far as that monumental work surpasses all others of its kind. It may not be amiss to say here & few words to one of the uses of a work like the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica, to which many of our readers, perhaps, give little thought. The hitherto been offered have resulted in limiting their sale to literary men and comparatively wealthy families, and the effect of this limitation has been that by the great mass of American people an encyclopædia is looked on as work of reference and nothing more; something useful to students. but rarely needed by men of non-professional vocations. How mistaken this idea is anybody will instantly see who will take the trouble to glance through a volume of the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica. From end to end it abounds in reading of the most delightful kind-biography, travels, history, narratives of adventure, accounts of strange and distant countries, descriptions of inventions and machinery. There is hardly a page of it that will not hold the mind enchained. The influence of such a literary collection in a family is incalculable. It sids the education of the young; it expands and strengthess the minds of older people; it fosters a taste for profitable reading and saves the young from one of the greatest dangers of our day - the temptation offered by the thousands of cheap, trashy and corrupting books that deluge our country in a perennial stream A library of reference, a collection of pure and entertaining literature, a vehiele of education and a safeguard egainst vice - this is what we offer to our readers.

We will give The Daily Herald one year and the set of Encyclopedias for $30; $5 down and $2.50 per month till paid; The Sunday Herald and the set for $22.50; and The Sami-Werkly Herald and the set for $23.00, also in monthly payments if desired. A discount of 5 per cent. allowed for cush. The above offer is for the Encyclopedia in cloth binding; sheep binding, $3.50 per set extra, half morocco, $5 per set extra. These valuable books can only be obtained by subscribing for The Herald. The sets are now on hand, and we will be pleased to show samples to any one who will call at our office.
